DUNDEE, Ore. — Breakside Brewery has opened a new food cart at its Alit Wines property in Dundee, adding smash burgers, wings, and other pub fare to the wine-country destination.

The Portland-based brewery soft-opened the new food cart at its Alit Wines property at 531 Highway 99W starting on Sept. 13. The cart will serve the food to compliment Breakside’s beer and Alit’s wine.

“One of the main things we’ve been missing is food here on site,” said Dan Brownhill, Breakside’s director of retail operations.

Brownhill said Breakside wanted to offer something more casual and approachable than some of the food options commonly found at Dundee’s wine-tasting rooms.

“We want to bring something that’s just really satisfying,” Brownhill said. “You finish a day of wine tasting, and you could have another charcuterie board, or you could have an awesome, juicy, delicious smash burger.”

The food cart’s soft opening period will continue as Breakside works to test and refine the menu. The company plans to promote the food cart more widely after its initial opening and is considering a larger event in early October.

The food cart will initially follow the property’s existing hours, which are 2 to 8 p.m. Wednesday through Friday and noon to 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Brownhill said Breakside hopes the addition of food eventually allows the property to expand its hours.

The food cart is also part of a broader effort by Breakside to develop its Dundee property into a casual destination for both locals and visitors.

“You go and do a tasting, and then you’re on your way back home and you’re like, ‘Oh, cool. Here’s a place that we can stop,’” Brownhill said. “And you can grab something delicious and satisfying to eat before heading back to Portland.”

Breakside acquired Alit Wines in March 2025 and has since incorporated the property into its beer-and-wine operations. The company recently added a year-round tent with seating and televisions, which Brownhill said will be used to show college and professional football games.

With the addition of food, Brownhill said the goal is to create a place where people can spend more time at the property rather than simply stopping in for a drink or wine tasting.

“We just want a place for people to hang out,” he said. “We want people who live in the area to have a place that’s easy and comfortable, where they can come and grab a pint of beer or a glass of wine, watch some sports on TV, and grab some really good satisfying food that isn’t going to cost an arm and a leg.”

The brewery’s arrival in Dundee has also been accompanied by efforts to become part of the local business community, Brownhill said. Breakside has hosted events with other local businesses and plans to continue developing the property as Dundee grows.

“We’re here for the long run,” he said. “We bought this property, and so we’re not going anywhere.” ☺

Harvest Moon Sangria Bar Not Closing, Owner Says After Building Listed for Sale

Owner Jules Moseley says she is now sole owner of Harvest Moon and is looking for a winery partner to help the brand grow.

NEWBERG, Ore. — A commercial building that houses Harvest Moon Sangria Bar in downtown Newberg was listed for sale this week, and owner Julianna “Jules” Moseley said the business itself is not closing.

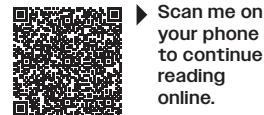

“I’ve received hundreds of messages today,” Moseley said in an interview on Sept. 10, 2026. “It was actually kind of encouraging to see such an outpouring of support and concern. It reminded me how much people care about Harvest Moon.”

The listing, posted on Instagram by The Kelly Group Real Estate, describes the roughly 2,060-square-foot building at 503 E. First St. as a “prime downtown location” suited for restaurant or bar use. According to the listing, the sale includes only the building, not Harvest Moon’s business or inventory. The sale price was not disclosed.

Moseley said the pace and visibility of the listing surprised her.

“I didn’t anticipate how quickly and publicly everything would happen,” she said.

According to Yamhill County property records, the building’s ownership group includes Moseley’s mother, Yvonne Muir, along with Northwest Fresh Seafood owners Mary and Blane Hansen, who purchased the property for $250,000 in July 2024. Moseley said Harvest Moon’s lease runs through May and that she plans to continue operating in the space regardless of who buys the building.
